PACKING TIPS

1. "Your best friend for chilly nights (or in air conditioning) are Pashmina shawls! I recommend you pack one or two matching with your evening clothing."—TripAdvisor Member, Santo Domingo
2. "After sun, sand, chlorine, salt water, a bit of wind and a few hangovers, eye drops helped a lot. Pack a few band-aids for blisters or small cuts and some Polysporin cream. It won't hurt and you don't want to buy it there. The same goes for anything else that's in the pharmacy that you might need."—TripAdvisor Member, Montreal, Quebec
3. "Please pack at least one change, or more, of 'vacation wear' in your carry-on bag. This will make you feel much more comfortable upon your arrival if your bags are a day or two behind."—TripAdvisor Member, Punta Cana

Inside

DOMINICAN REPUBLIC

Back—way back—when Columbus was on the move, he sailed past the island that is now the Dominican Republic and reportedly proclaimed, "There is no more beautiful island in the world." Some 500 years later, his sentiment still holds true.

The Dominican Republic lies in the same waters as Cuba and Puerto Rico, taking up the eastern two-thirds of the island it shares with Haiti. It has a lush interior with a mix of caves, Victorian gingerbread houses and the lore of pirates; it's also outlined by beaches along nearly 900 miles of coastline. The Dominican Republic's people are arguably the friendliest in the Caribbean, although poverty is common and crime is a concern (it's typically the pickpocket variety, though, so just pack common sense in your suitcase).

Oh, and did we mention the Dominican Republic is family friendly, has just-about perfect year-round weather and is very affordable?

For an elevated view of Puerto Plata, ride a cable car to the top of Mount Isabel de Torres. "The cable car ride was great. There was a beautiful view on the way up and down and we actually went into a cloud. All we could see around the cable car was pure white. At the top of the mountain was a beautiful garden, the statue of Jesus, and many different spots with great views."—TripAdvisor Member, Toronto, Ontario
